

CONVENTION STILL DEADLOCKED

Cox, McAdoo and Palmer Still Hold Strength, But Delegates Look for a Compromise

San Francisco, July 5.—The Democratic convention went to its 23rd ballot today for the presidential nominee without apparent prospect of any change from the last roll call Saturday night. Saturday's balloting left the four leaders, Cox, 430; McAdoo, 372 1-2; Palmer, 166; Davis, 52. The remaining 70 votes were scattered among favorite sons. Both the McAdoo and Cox supporters claimed victory today. Davis seems the chief dark horse.

Chairman Robinson called the convention to order at 10 o'clock. The Lord's Prayer was recited, the Star Spangled Banner sung and the Declaration of Independence read. The various managers said there is as much of a deadlock as ever. The Cox people declared that "McAdoo can't be nominated if we stay here three weeks." The McAdoo people declared similarly.

At 10:32 the balloting began. The 23rd ballot, the first of today, showed no material change in the deadlock, although there were fluctuations on all sides.

The leaders stood: McAdoo, 364 1-2; Cox, 425; Palmer, 181 1-2; Davis, 50 1-2. McAdoo lost eight.

As the favorite sons vote stood pat, some delegates added a touch of humor. Missouri threw a half vote for Ring Lardner. Washington and Kentucky threw one vote and a half for Irvin Cobb.

Kentucky voted: McAdoo, 5; Palmer, 3; Cobb, 1-2; Cox, 17 1-2.

The 24th ballot failed to break the deadlock, and there were growing signs of irritation among the delegates at the attitude of the favorite sons states which refused to break.

The leaders stood: McAdoo, 364 1-2; Cox, 429; Palmer, 181 1-2; Davis, 54 1-2.

The changes showed Cox gained 4; McAdoo no change, Palmer lost 3 1-2; Davis gained 4. On this ballot Kentucky voted: McAdoo, 5; Cox, 20; Davis, 1.

Norman L. Mack, national committeeman, after the vote said if Cox could not get the nomination there would "be a brand new deal. It will be a gray horse," said he. By a grey horse rather than a black one, Mack said he meant a compromise candidate, satisfactory to all.

The roll call on the 26th ballot then began and on it the delegates and various leaders expected something to start.

The 25th ballot stood: McAdoo, 364 1-2; Cox, 525; Palmer, 169; Davis, 58 1-2.

Bryan stated, "I think they are really looking for some one satisfactory to the deadlocked leaders and who will respond to every demand of the White House, Wall street and the liquor interests, but have not yet been able to agree on a man."

The 26th ballot stood: McAdoo, 371; Cox, 424 1-2; Palmer, 167; Davis, 55 1-2. The search for a dark horse began to take form.

The 27th ballot stood: McAdoo, 371 1-2; Cox, 423 1-2; Palmer, 166 1-2; Davis, 60 1-2.

The 28th ballot stood: McAdoo, 368 1-2; Cox, 423; Palmer, 165 1-2; Davis, 62 1-2.

The 29th ballot stood: McAdoo, 394 1-2; Cox, 404 1-2; Palmer, 166; Davis, 63. Indiana turned 29 of her 30 votes to McAdoo and Washington's 14 were given him. These were mainly for Cox.

The 30th ballot stood: McAdoo, 403 1-2; Cox, 400 1-2; Palmer, 165; Davis, 58. There were rumblings that Georgia might flop to McAdoo on the 31st ballot.

CORNER STONE LAYING THURSDAY

Interesting Facts Concerning The Original Presbyterian Church And Its Progress Here

The laying of the cornerstone of the new Presbyterian church on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, which will be attended by the members of the Richmond lodge of Masons, together with other Masonic lodge members of the county, will be an auspicious affair, in a way, and marks a most important and interesting period in the progress of this church in Madison county.

The first Presbyterian church to be built in Richmond or Madison county was during the middle of July, 1832. Its dedication was on July 5 of that year. The church recently razed, or a part of it, is said to be the remnant of that edifice, which was a two-story structure of brick. This church, however, was rebuilt in 1858-59, and again in 1887. This is the structure complete and that was torn down a few months ago.

Readers of the Daily Register will recall the spirited campaign which followed the decision to build the new church now under course of construction and of the fact that a donation of $20,000 by Waller Bennett stimulated the work.

The Presbyterian church was founded, or rather organized, in Richmond and Madison county in 1827 by the Rev. James Bond, father of Rev. George Bond, the mountain evangelist.

The cornerstone will have beneath it a roster of the officials and various pastors of the church, together with interesting data regarding dates, etc. Rev. R. L. Telford, present minister, will deliver the chief address of the day. There will be a number of members, it is understood, who have not been in Richmond for years in attendance at the ceremonies. The Richmond lodge of Masons will hold a special meeting, as stated elsewhere in these columns preparatory to arranging for attending, also the invitation to the other members of the lodge.

Gets Royal Reception

Marion, O., July 5.—Senator Warren G. Harding got a royal reception from his fellowtownsmen upon his arrival today from Washington. Virtually every citizen greeted the Republican presidential nominee. He is understood to have said today that the three leaders for the Democratic nomination, Cox, Palmer and McAdoo, had no chance to win, and the nominee would probably be a dark horse.

BODY OF INFANT FOUND IN A WELL

Sunday afternoon while climbing a tree for apples on his farm, near Big Hill, Claude Gentry's attention was attracted to a curious object in an abandoned well. Procuring a tub and pole, he procured the object, which proved to be the body of a female infant. Coroner Muncey, of Richmond, was notified, and with Dr. Robinson an inquest developed that the child's body had been abandoned perhaps five days and probably as many weeks.

It was scantily clad, with a cloth about its face as if for the purpose of strangling. The verdict of the coroner was that the infant came to its death at the hands of unknown persons, and that it was either strangled or drowned. Undertaker W. C. Engle of Berea, was called and the body interred in a cemetery near by.

OLD FRIENDS PLAY, DRINK, THEN SHOOT

Two Estill Men May Die As The Result Of Furth Of July Celebration Sunday

A Furth of July celebration that may cost two lives has aroused Estill county, and two hitherto good friends are in the hospital at Lexington in a precarious condition as the result of an alleged fight over a card game in which they participated, as well as many drinks of moonshine whiskey, according to the reports emanating from that locality.

The men, who are said to be residents of Miller creek, Estill county, are Joseph Embury and Luther Young. The former is married, having a wife and several children. Young is single. The shooting took place during the afternoon and it was late Sunday night when friends found the two men, investigated their wounds, and prepared to have them conveyed to the hospital, where, it was reported, neither has much chance for recovery.

The men, it is claimed, had been friends for years, but decided to have a celebration of the Fourth in a day of pleasure, and procured a quantity of whiskey. They started a card game during the afternoon, which is given as the cause of the dispute which may prove fatal to both. Neither has been able to give any particulars of the affair.

An examination of the body revealed the fact that Sims had been beaten over the head with a heavy weapon, his skull be fractured. It is believed he was attacked and his body placed on the track in an effort to hide the deed.

This is a rare bargain for some one in need of scales, and already Mr. Blanton has had several prospective purchasers who read the advertisement in the Daily Register.

SPECIAL FEATURES IN EVIDENCE TODAY

Court Day And Fourth Of July Spirit Mingle With Light Horse Sales

While there was a general Monday morning resumption of business in Richmond, city and county offices being open, there was the general court day observance and many horses and mules on the streets with selling starting slowly. At noon there were light sales reported, and the prices were like wise.

The regular Fourth of July spirit seemed much in evidence, from the fact that court day was not as much for business as to "visit," thus business was stagnated.

There was a tendency towards a good time and many diversions. One was "Duck Maupin, who tuned up a violin at First and Main streets, and he did it properly. He rendered "Billy in the Low Ground," "Leather Breeches" and a number of other favorite numbers that brought a crowd, including a traffic policeman, who seemed to have lost his power of speech—he enjoyed it, too; a woman selling baskets and a boy leading a pet ground hog which he refused to sell added to the extra numbers of the bill. A blind man selling lead pencils seemed to be wishing that Fourth of July came every day. He had a pencil for all who tendered a nickel, his stock in trade being one of the few articles not purchasable at that price.

Webster Hamilton, hearing Mr. Maupin's music, wanted to have a dance then and there. A number of "other" young men were also willing, but there was an absence of the fair sex. The court day proceedings went on, proceeding slowly, but all enjoying themselves.

At noon there were many added attractions and an immense crowd, apparently happy, but not buying or selling many mules or horses.

RAVENNA TRAGEDY

MAY END FATALLY

A young man apparently 18 years old, giving his name as Bryant, was shot and perhaps fatally wounded Saturday night at Ravenna, it is alleged, by Joe Spivy, a railway detective. The victim of the unfortunate affair is in a hospital hovering between life and death.

Reports from Ravenna are to the effect that the young man arrived in Ravenna late at night, awaiting the arrival of the midnight train. He is said to have been slightly under the influence of liquor. It was when he believed officers were watching him that he started from the depot, where he had spent some time, that he was called upon to halt by Spivy. Failure at the first command is said to have caused the officer to fire at the young man who started to run, and he received a bullet in the back. He fell and was taken to the hospital. He had been working in the oil fields and had about $300 in his pockets, which he is said to have saved. He had no whisky in his possession.

NO PROCLAMATION NEEDED, SAYS MAYOR

This is one of the years that Mayor L. P. Evans will not issue a proclamation, announcing that the day, Monday, as many other cities, will be observed strictly as a legal holiday.

"There is no need of a proclamation," said Mayor Evans, in speaking of the event, "since the people of Richmond are patriotic enough to know the day and date and they will show that anywhere and everywhere the occasion demands. There is court day coming and there would be thousands disappointed should there not be any thing doing, and, anyhow, everyone in and near Richmond is so busy they will be looking after their business affairs, and I think it would be better to let them do as they please. They know the glorious Fourth and what it stands for, and we will have court day along with the rest of the festivities the people choose to have."

LOUISVILLE WOMAN GAINS 20 POUNDS

Had Suffered Fifteen Years And Was Told That Operation Was Her Only Hope

"At the time I began taking Tanlac, a month ago, I was so bad off I was not expected to live much longer, but since then, although it may sound unreasonable, I have actually gained twenty pounds in weight and am now able to do my house work for the first time in many years."

The above remarkable statement was made a few days ago by Mrs. Maude Menne, who resides at 332 West Jefferson street, in Louisville, Ky.

"In 1905," she continued, "I suffered a general breakdown" and during all these years I didn't know what it was to enjoy a single well day. I suffered with a stomach trouble as bad as any woman ever did and only my close friends and neighbors knew the awful condition I was in. My stomach was so badly upset I could hardly eat a bite without being in misery afterwards. Some times I wasn't able to retain a thing I ate and I would bloat up with gas until I felt for fear I had heart trouble. My nerves were completely shattered, and just a little unexpected noise would upset me. It was impossible for me to even sleep good and I just hate to think of the many nights I spent rolling and tossing in agony. I fell off in weight until I lost about fifty pounds and was actually so weak I couldn't raise my hands to my head. I was almost a perfect wreck, and, in spite of all the money I spent and the many different medicines I took in an effort to get relief, I grew worse instead of better. Finally I was told that an operation was my only hope.

However, I decided to try Tanlac first, as I had heard so much about it, and I will always be thankful that I did, because I am now relieved completely of all my troubles. I was astonished at the way Tanlac began to build me up. Why, it seemed that it was made specially for me. My appetite returned and I started eating things I had not dared to touch in years and my lost weight an d strength began to come back. I have now finished my third bottle of Tanlac, and I'll declare, I can hardly realize what a wonderful change it has made in me. I am eating anything and everything I please and am never troubled one bit afterwards. Already I have gained back almost half of my lost weight and I am still gaining every day. My nerves are just as calm and steady as can be and I sleep like a child every night. I just can't begin to tell you how happy I feel over my recovery and as long as I live I can never praise Tanlac enough."

Trenton, N. Miss Kugler, with breath almost knocked out of her, fell into the street and Miller landed on his feet.

The girl, except for being badly shaken, was unharmed and was able to go to the state house and finish her work. Miller's left foot was sprained and he went to a hospital for treatment.

REAL GAMESTERS

McLANE BROTHERS

While the contracting firm of John R. McLane, of Newport, has been meeting with unusual difficulties in the way of unfavorable weather and a scarcity of labor, show shipments of material, etc., since the beginning of work on the local streets several months ago, they are proving themselves gamesters in the way of filling contracts, since a representative of the firm stated today that while they expected to close the work in connection with the sewers in the city by July 20, "it might be longer," since the company had a penchant for doing things right, and the task would not be given up until everything was shipshape. The troublesome rock beneath the streets has hampered the work's progress considerably. However, this with other difficulties has been contended with without a murmur upon the part of the contractors and they are planning to stay in the city for an extended period, since there is other work coming and bids have been placed, and it is probable that the company which has really worked its way into the good graces of the city officials, as a result of steadfastly standing by the job when odds were against it, will probably be given more work to do.

Change in Ice Prices

In January, 1920, this Company made contract for its coal requirements at $4.00 per ton f. o. b. mines. After making this contract for coal, which is one of the largest items of expense entering into the manufacture of ice, we adopted what we considered a fair schedule of prices for the year 1920.

Due to the shortage of cars and transportation difficulties, it has been impossible for us to get the coal which we have bought on contract, hence, it has been necessary for us to go into the open market and buy coal at prices around $8.00 per ton at the mines. As a result, it is necessary that the prices of ice be revised again to accommodate the increased cost of coal and other items entering into the manufacture of ice.

Effective July 5, 1920
the following schedule of prices will be charged by this Company for its product:

Residence deliveries	80c per 100 pounds
Single blocks	75c per " "
Larger quantities	70c per " "

It is our hope that the cost of coal, etc., necessary for the production of our product will become cheaper later on, in which event our prices will be revised accordingly.

Change in Ice Prices

In January, 1920, this Company made contract for its coal requirements at $4.00 per ton f. o. b. mines. After making this contract for coal, which is one of the largest items of expense entering into the manufacture of ice, we adopted what we considered a fair schedule of prices for the year 1920.

Due to the shortage of cars and transportation difficulties, it has been impossible for us to get the coal which we have bought on contract, hence, it has been necessary for us to go into the open market and buy coal at prices around $8.00 per ton at the mines. As a result, it is necessary that the prices of ice be revised again to accommodate the increased cost of coal and other items entering into the manufacture of ice.

Effective July 5, 1920
the following schedule of prices will be charged by this Company for its product:

Residence deliveries	80c per 100 pounds
Single blocks	75c per " "
Larger quantities	70c per " "

THINK THIS OVER

In these days when prices of things have soared to unprecedented heights and when building and labor costs have ably kept pace with the trend of the times, it seems strange that so many fail to appreciate the fact that the value of their insurable property has greatly increased, causing their present coverage to be incommensurate with the actual value of property as measured by pre-war standards. Should a loss occur and replacements become necessary, many would find to their sorrow that their protection had been pitifully inadequate. Talk the matter over with

Robbie-Baker

June, the ever-popular month of weddings, has seemed to have her full quota in Berea this year, and one of the prettiest of the season occurred on the afternoon of the twenty-third, when Miss Myrtle Baker and Mr. Carroll H. Robie were united in marriage at the home of the bride on Big Hill pike.

The wedding was a very quiet one, only the immediate friends witnessing the double ring ceremony, which was performed by Rev. J. W. Raine, in his usual quiet and impressive manner.

Miss Esther Gentry and Chauncey Godbey, both intimate friends of the bride and groom, were the bridesmaid and best man.

After congratulations were over, the bride and groom were escorted to the train and amidst a shower of rose petals, were off on their honeymoon. The trip included brief visits in Washington, Philadelphia and New York City, and a visit with Mr. Robie's parents near Boston. They will make their home in Wollaston, a suburb of Boston.

Mrs. Robie, who has always lived in Berea, and is a graduate of the college department has scores of friends in the town and county, and Mr. Robie, who was a Berea college student for two years, also has a wide circle of friends, all of whom wish for both of them a long life of happiness and prosperity.

Entertained At Masonic Temple

One of the very prettiest of the season's gayeties was the dance at the Masonic Temple Friday evening, to which Miss Maria Langford was hostess, which was given in compliment to her guest, Miss Marion Joplin, of Los Angeles, Cal. Invitations were issued to 150 guests and a large number were in attendance. Never was the Temple more attractively decorated, the color scheme of white and green, white and hydrangeas and fern being used very profusely, which made an unusually pretty setting for the party. Presiding at the punch table were Mrs. H. M. Whitting and Miss Marie Fierber. Others assisting the hostess were Mrs. D. S. Harber, Mrs. C. S. Powell and Mrs. Hilda Deane. Among the out-of-town guests were Miss Joplin, of Los Angeles; Miss Mary Hardin Vaught, Lexington; Miss Dollie Pekels, Baltimore; Mr. Albert Lacy Russell, Jacksonville, Fla., and Mr. C. S. Powell, of St. Louis.

STELLAR LIGHT AT CHAUTAUQUA

One of the best programs thus far during the Chautauqua was furnished Saturday night with an all-star cast, for Opie Read was there, and he is surely considered one of the stellar lights; then there were the New York opera singers, of whom so much has been said, and they quite came up to expectations. Their standard of entertainment is unusual and one of the bright lights of the Chautauqua events.

Opie Read delivered his lecture on "Human Nature and Politics," and the man who has lectured to a clientele that numbers millions, failed not in his attempt to interest his many hearers. His philosophy as known to all who have heard him before, is such to bring one from laughter immediately to sternness in realizing that he has quoted a notable truth, and he is again back in that happy vein that is entertaining from the start. The remainder of the entertainment for the evening recorded excellent music. The singers were greatly appreciated.

Great Lakes Naval Station Busy Place

(By Associated Press)
Chicago, July 2--Nearly 100 men are being graduated every three weeks at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station from what naval officers described as the biggest trade school in the world. The school is devoted exclusively to the training of aviation mechanics and at the present time 3,225 students are taking the courses, which range in length from 16 to 36 weeks.

More than 1,000 men have been graduated since the school was established slightly more than one

Paris, July 2--Clemenceau is shown at the front, standing at the edge of a trench, with his friend the French points below and about him, in the monument to be erected in his native country, the Vendee, early next year. Unfinished, the work is already said to visualize with great character the scene so often picture of the old "Tiger," mentally and almost physically, fighting for France.

RIVER BANKS LOOK LIKE TENTED CITY

Three-fourths of the world not at work is living out of doors. Sounds funny, but it's a fact, according to the railway passenger train conductors who report that there has never been such a "short distance" as this year. It was necessary to add three extra coaches to one night train out of Cincinnati, after the Kentucky side was reached, in order to accommodate the passengers, and then many stood in the aisle for some time. All were short trip tickets handed the conductor, and the stops were frequent. The traffic north from this city is the same, said the conductor of a passenger train today. "The banks of the Kentucky river are literally lined with camping parties," he said, and that there was a constant coming and going. "We've been hauling," said one ticket puncher, "an immense number of local passenger during the past two weeks, and there is no indication of a decrease in this business for some time to come, since there is much of the usual hot weather period yet this year." He stated that most of the picnickers and campers, with the exception of Sunday, were men employed during the week in the factories in cities and towns.

STATE TO CONTROL SIX MADISON ROADS

Important Change To Come Wednesday, When Inspection Tour Is To Be Made

According to the new law there are six of the leading roads in Madison county to be taken over by the Kentucky State Highway Department for permanent maintenance, and the transfer of the control from the county to state will be made as soon as an inspection can be made by Division Engineer J. S. Dawson, of the State Roads Department, who will be here next Wednesday.

The inspection trip will be made in company with Judge W. K. Price and County Road Engineer J. C. Baxter. It is said that the state will probably not take over certain parts of one or more of the highways unless there are additional improvements made by county. The law stipulates that the condition of roads being accepted must be fair, and this is the reason for believing that there will be a little improvement here and there necessary ere some of the highways of the county are taken over. The pikes to be turned over to the state control are as follows: Lancaster, Ttate's Creek, Red House, Irvine, Big Hill, Lexington and what is called the portion of the Dixie Highway, extending from Kingston to the Rockcastle county line.

This will eliminate the expense of the county which has been extensive, it is said, for several years past. It is estimated that at least $100,000 has been expended on the Dixie Highway alone. There are about 20 miles of this popular highway, however, in Madison county. There is general repair work being done in many parts of the county at present. The demand for better roads has caused the work to become more extensive during recent years, and a special effort has been made to effect all improvement possible.

Liberty Bonds at Prevailing Market
Price, or Even a Higher Level,
Are a Splendid Buy.

The drastic decline in Liberty Bonds has caused a loss to the investment public, which bought nearly $22,000,000 of these securities in less than two years, or more than $2,500,000,000. This sum represents the difference in the par value of Liberty Bonds and the low price quoted on the Stock Exchange today, which shows a depreciation of from 5 to 17 per cent on the five bonds.

The above statement is taken from a St. Louis newspaper, which in printing it announced that the information contained in the nearly a column article that followed was sent by leased wire from its New York Bureau.

The fact that Liberty Bonds were selling considerably under par value at the time is true, but that the loss is anything as great as quoted is erroneous.

In fact, the loss that those have sustained on Liberty Bonds because of selling them at a price below par has been a loss at all is voluntary on the part of the seller. He knows that by holding the bonds he will receive par, at least, for them, together with the interest stipulated in the bonds as fast as it falls due.

The Liberty Bond that you and I bought during the drives, and for which we paid par, is actually worth as much today as it was the day it was bought. The United States government has not defaulted on a single interest payment, and it will not. It has never yet failed to meet an obligation when it became due, and it will never fail.

There are many reasons why Liberty Bonds are selling below par today. But the man who owns a Liberty Bond, and holds it, will receive, when it is due, the full amount promised by the government. And if history repeats itself, as it nearly always does, he may long before they mature dispose of his bonds, not at a discount, but at a premium.

That the people, as a whole have not lost confidence in Liberty Bonds is evidenced by the vast volume of sales. For every bond sold there was a buyer as well as a seller. The buyer knew he was getting a bargain. The seller was either frightened needlessly or he was in such dire straits for ready money that he sacrificed one of the best investments he ever made. It is the wise man who not only holds onto the Liberty Bonds he now owns, but who is increasing his holdings.

One of the established rules in business is to buy when a commodity is cheap and sell when it is dear. Now is the time to buy Liberty Bonds, but it is a mighty poor time to sell.

MARSHFIELD INTERESTED.

Postmaster Hamilton is Disposing of Many Treasury Saving Certificates.

As the postmasters and the public throughout the Eighth Federal Reserve District are becoming familiar with the liberal terms attached to the purchase of the United States Treasury Savings Certificates, the sales increase. In Marshfield, Webster County, Mo., down in the Southwestern part of the State, C. C. Hamilton, the postmaster, has put in some effective ticks in the disposing of the securities.

On May 6 he sent in his first order for a $100 certificate. The next day he did better and sent in an order for a $1,000 certificate. Then five days later, on May 12, he forwarded another order for three $100 certificates, and announced that he had run out of application blanks, and figured he could use another 25 before the end of the month.

The postmasters are proving a tower of strength in helping the Treasury Department in getting these securities in the hands of the people, just whom it was designed by the Government to benefit when the campaign was inaugurated.
